DTA INVOLVED WITH 'PB HOUSE REVIEW' BY PROFESSIONAL BUILDER MAGAZINE

May 2, 2011

Dominick Tringali Architects is excited to be part of a unique joint venture which began in 2011, called 'Professional builder House Review.' This venture is with Professional Builder Magazine, and a small group of talented architects located around the country.

PB House Review is featured in Professional Builder Magazine on a monthly basis, and each feature targets a specific market segment ranging from everything to expandable floor plans, to narrow lot design, to outdoor kitchens. The architects in the group submit individual design responses targeting each market segment being featured. The designs are available for purchase after each feature.

The feature provides a unique opportunity for builders and custom clients alike to learn about new design trends, and to see how nationally renowned architects are implementing them into the housing market.
